What is a Stubby Holder?

A stubby holder, also known as a can cooler or beer koozie, is a simple yet highly effective accessory designed to keep your drink cold while keeping your hands comfortable. Traditionally made from neoprene or foam, stubby holders slip over bottles or cans and act as an insulator.

Key Benefits of Stubby Holders

- Temperature Retention: Keeps your drinks colder for longer.
- Comfort: Prevents condensation, keeping your hands dry.
- Reusable and Portable: Lightweight, easy to carry, and eco-friendly.
- Customisation Options: Can be printed with logos, names, or designs, making them great for events or gifts.

Stubby holders are especially popular in Australia, where outdoor gatherings and barbecues are part of the culture.

What is a Vacuum Can Cooler?

A vacuum can cooler is a more advanced type of drink insulator that uses vacuum-sealed double-wall technology. This design creates an airless space between two stainless steel walls, preventing heat transfer from the outside environment into your drink.

Key Benefits of Vacuum Can Coolers

- Superior Insulation: Drinks stay cold for hours, even in hot weather.
- Durable Material: Made from stainless steel, they are long-lasting and sturdy.

- Fits Different Sizes: Many vacuum can coolers come with adjustable features to fit both bottles and cans.
- Stylish Design: Sleek, modern look that appeals to both casual users and professionals.
- No Condensation: Keeps hands and surfaces free from moisture.

Vacuum can coolers are ideal for travellers, campers, and anyone who spends long hours outdoors.
